August 10-14
Hebrews

Careful study of Hebrews offers great rewards. Hebrews has a rich contribution to make to biblical theology. Its doctrine of the incarnation is profound; its warning passages challenging, its understanding of perfection vital. Topics such as ‘the rest’ of the people of God, the perseverance of the saints, the once for all atoning sacrifice, the exemplars of faith, and the mysterious Melchizedek all call for investigation.

August 17-21
Gospel of Mark

“Mark’s theological purpose is primarily to reveal the identity and meaning of Jesus as Messiah, Son of God. He does this by telling Jesus’ story as an overlay of the story of Israel that, in turn, gets its meaning from the revelation of God’s good purposes from the beginning” (Brower, Mark, 31). This course will explore Mark’s picture of Jesus as well as other important subjects like discipleship and holiness.
